Specialization in Science.

The pitch to which specialization is carried nowadays even in such a field as scientific investigation is illustrated by the foundation in Vienna of an institution to be wholly devoted to the study of radium. The buildings, which are now under construction and will be ready next spring, stand on the Wahringstrasse, next to those of the new Institute of Physics. They are the property of the Vienna Academy of Sciences, which has contributed half a million kroner toward the institution.

Two of Their League Teams Defeated Players From Business Men's and Senior Leagues.

A good demonstration of the fact that baseball playing was given at the first of the home championship series of games when two teams of the intermediate league won from River composed of older and larger men, in the Business Men's and Senior leagues. The first struggle was between H. H. Bliss and the Intermediate Sox, captained by W. McDonald, the former being taken into camp by the latter, by the score of 18 to 14. The deciding baskets were thrown in the last minute or two of the game.

In the second contest the Hooflugs closed against the Glants, losing to them by the score of 32 to 19. Owen and Mott starred for the Glants. A feature of this game was the tumbling match between Clark of the Hooflugs and Korst of the Glants.

The next contests will be held on Thursday night when the Wilcox quintet of the Business Men's league meets Verne Merrill's Naps and L. McArthur's Yankins struggle with E. Phillet's Cubs.

The series of championship games in the Business Men's class of the Y. M. C. A. have reached a point where the final decision rests almost wholly on the game which will be played in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. next Friday evening. If the Wilcox team wins, they will of a certainty have the championship, but if H. H. Bliss team, with whom they will play, are successful, another contest will be necessary to decide to whom the honors shall be given. As the percentages now stand, Wilcox's team has a lead of one game over Bliss. The following table shows the number of games the teams of the association have lost and won:

It is over at the bottom, and the other sounds in the room are reduced to a minimum. In front of the hood is the transmitter and their receiver is attached to the headgear, which relieves the person using the instrument of the necessity of holding the receiver to his ear. For persons who have great deal of continuous telephoning to do, this apparatus is a valuable convenience.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

IF ONLY women would have the strength of mind to look each new fashion fully in the face and say firmly, "What care I how fair it be if it be not fair to me," most of them would look distinctly more attractive.

The woman who slavishly follows the mandates of fashion without any allowance for her personal appearance deserves to look as homely as she frequently does.

Since the Peter Pan and the Little Boy Blue collar and the no-collar-at-all Dutch neck have become so popular I have seen more sawn-necked than I ever knew existed. Only a woman with a smooth, plump, and rather short neck really looks well in these collarless arrangements, but the woman who is a slave to fashion must needs have her gown made in this way whether she has the right sort of neck or not. Ago shows more quickly in a woman's throat than anywhere else. But this sign of her vanishing youth may be hidden by all but the woman who is foolish enough to prefer the fashionable to the becoming style.

The short sleeves style is one that was meant exclusively for women whose arms were made of curves and cushions and dimples. But just as the stout lady made petticoats and directoire gowns ridiculous by her attempts to wear them, so the lady of boy wrists and unlovely elbows boldly adopted the elbow sleeves. When a woman might hide an unattractive spot in her make-up how can even the most imperative demands of fashion persuade her to disclose it? It is incomprehensible to me.

A very original friend of mine has adopted a very original attitude towards the fickleness of fashion. "Though I am not ready to imitate, I thoroughly admire it."

When she was about 45 years old she made up her mind that she wanted her time for other purposes than visits to dressmakers, tailors and milliners. So he had a thoroughly good dressmaker design a gown for her which was not extreme in any of its details. The sleeves were neither very large nor very small. The skirt was neither extravagantly full nor extremely scant. Moreover, it was made on lines which were artistically fitted for the woman's figure.

A milliner and tailor were asked to design a hat and coat with the same qualifications.

"That was ten years ago, and since that time my original friend has had all her gowns, coats and hats made on those models. She says the saving of time and worry is something enormous. She looks ten years younger than any other woman of her age in the town and he accounts for it almost exclusively by her freedom from the worries and fretting about fashions."

Chronic Catarrh and Throat Trouble.

"It gives me pleasure to write you this letter at this time on account of the good your Peruna has done me when I was quite done up with a very bad cold; I could hardly perform my ordinary duties, but from the use of Peruna I am almost restored to health."

"I am quite convinced that it has helped me from chronic catarrh, to which I am subject. It has also benefited my throat."

"I can truly recommend it as the best all-round medicine I have been my privilege to become acquainted with. Of this I am quite convinced from my own experience."—Capt. Lemuel M. Hutchinson, Montpelier, Vt.

Can Now Eat Anything.

Mr. J. W. Pritchard, Columbia City, Ind., writes: "I am pleased to say that I have been cured of catarrh of the stomach by Peruna."

"I could hardly eat anything that agreed with me. Before I would get half through my meal my stomach would fill with gas, causing me much distress and unpleasant feelings for an hour or two after each meal."

"But, thanks to your Peruna, I am now completely cured, and can eat anything I want to without any of the distressing symptoms. I can now enjoy my meals as I used to do, and it is all due to Dr. Hartman and his wonderful medicine, Peruna."

"It has been one year since I was cured, and I am all O. K. yet, so I know I am cured."

A Nervous Breakdown.

Mr. Lewis Zinn, editor and proprietor of "St. Augustine Meteor," writes: "Any man in public work finds at times that he is under a peculiar nerve strain. I found that with it I lost my appetite, and my brain seemed to work uneasily during waking and sleeping hours, so I was tired and worn out in the morning."

"Tonics and invigorators were suggested and tried, but nothing was of benefit to me but Peruna. That is certainly a remarkable medicine. I was restored in three weeks to my normal health condition, my appetite returned and my sleep was refreshing."

TARIFF AND THE TARIFF

"The tariff in a number of the schedules exceeds the difference between the cost of production of such articles abroad and at home, including a reasonable profit to the American producer. No excess over the difference accrues to the user, but offers a temptation to those who would monopolize the production and sale of such articles in this country to profit by the excessive rate."

This paragraph, from a speech of President Taft, during the campaign, is a terse statement of his ideas on tariff revision, and expresses the policy outlined in the republican platform, as well as the demands of the people.

The Aldrich bill, which is just now causing so much discussion, ignores this principle, and provides that the Dingley rate on many commodities, remain in force. This is a short-sighted and dangerous proposition, and if carried out the administration party will be held accountable. Cotton and woolen goods and hides are three staples which enter largely into the necessities of everyday life. While the cost of production has been cheapened by improved machinery, prices on many lines of manufactured goods have steadily advanced because controlled by a little coterie of manufacturers.

The duty on these lines was so high as to bar all foreign competition, and prices became so unreasonable that the cry of over-protected industries was heard on every hand. President Taft recognized the significance of this wall of complaint, and pledged the people to do all in his power to remedy it. Senator Aldrich proposes to ignore it, and so the fight goes on, but he and his colleagues will discover in time that the will of the people is supreme.

The tariff is expected to protect American labor against competition with the cheap labor of the old world, and to afford capital reasonable profits, but the latter has been too grasping and monopolistic have developed and become burdensome, until there is a general demand for tariff regulation on over-protected industries.

CLEAN-UP DAY

Following the suggestion of the American Civic association, many cities in various states are having a "Clean-up Day," a day set apart when everybody gives all his attention to backyards and unsightly vacant lots, removing rubbish and preparing to transform these areas into beds of flowers in the summer.

From the year that a "Clean-up Day" first was proposed by the American Civic association, the number of cities endorsing the project has steadily increased. Not all select the same day, but the "clean-up" usually happens between April 1 and May 15.

One of the latest cities to have a "Clean-up Day" is Durham, North Carolina. There the Durham Civic association, which is affiliated with the American Civic association, made the suggestion of "Clean-up Day" for April 6. In the resolution adopted approval was made to all citizens to give their time this day to "all basements, backyards and front lawns, to thoroughly renovate them by the removal of every kind of garbage, all unsightly plunder and by the free use of lime." Merchants and others were urged to lend their aid and a general appeal was made in behalf of the vacant lots. To remove the dirt and garbage thus collected, the board of aldermen agreed to furnish all the carts necessary, and this was done. The day was one of the most successful in Durham in the cause of civic improvement. Rochester, Pa., Richmond, Ind., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Spokane, Wash., and many other cities in the western states also had "Clean-up Days."

At the last meeting of the county board the question of paying for the detective service in the Cronin murder case was discussed and some opposition developed to paying the bill of $285, presented by the district attorney. One of the city supervisors led the opposition which was largely confined to country members. The justice of the claim was recognized, however, and the 21 members who voted to allow it are to be commended. The money was most of it spent on Chicago detectives employed by the district attorney.

In the death of Congressman Babcock the state loses a man who for many years was a faithful and efficient public servant, and who would have continued in public life but for the vindictive warfare of a personal enemy aided by the machinery of the state. Mr. Babcock was ever true to his constituency, and an intelligent and tireless worker in their behalf. His death will be sincerely mourned by a host of friends throughout the state.

The people breathed freer when the supreme court decided that Janesville had but one chief of police and the opinion was freely expressed that now the laws would be enforced, but now the discovery is made that the chief is without authority to regulate his force. This is a defect which should be remedied without delay. If the chief is to be held responsible he must be given authority to dismiss men, whom he considers detrimental to the service.

For more than 30 years the old Sultan of Turkey has been a menace to the nation and the fact that he has been deposed by the progressive party, known as the "Young Turk," excites no sympathy. Turkey needs civilization more than anything else, as the new dynasty will discover.

Mr. Homburg's analysis of conditions which retard the growth of Janesville was true to the letter. Rivalry, jealousy, the east and west side, and numerous other petty annoyances have long been characteristic. The town would be better off if the river was two miles away.

The wheat corner did not last long enough to be of much benefit to the millers. About the time they advanced the price of flour wheat commenced to tumble, and it has been going down ever since. There is no longer any excuse for light-weight bread.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has just imported a cargo of crocodiles, 1,500,000 gallons, to be used in treating railroad ties.

The Bank of England will soon reduce its rate of 2 per cent, indicating that money is a drug in the market.

The great steamship lines are feeling the business depression, and receipts are falling off.

The hunter arrived on the African shore, all armed to the teeth and impatient for game; with powder and bullets and MOMBASA shot by the ton, and a long snickerbox and an elephant gun. O well may the lion glance, fearful, around, and hunt, with his mate, for a hole in the ground; and well may the rhino a sycamore climb, to see if the hunter is coming on time; and well may the monkey from beast to beast go, and write life insurance at so much a year. Full soon the poor hunter's last will have squirmed; he'll be non-existent and all taxidermist. No longer through jungle the tiger will roam; his form will be shipped to a famed institute, where four-eyed professors will maul the poor wretch, and lecture to students for hours at a stretch. The hunter's arrived on the African shore, and the jungle will never know peace any more.

Heart to Heart Talks.

WHEN YOU ARE DEAD.

An insurance policy in a good company is a mighty handy thing to have in the house at your funeral.

It brings money to your family at the time when the family needs money more than at any other time.

Life insurance is the greatest and most beneficent form of co-operation the world has known. It distinctly carries out the Scriptural injunction, "Bear ye one another's burdens."

It is an organized effort toward the abolition of poverty.

Now—

If you would your family while alive, what would the law do to you? Put you in jail.

Does death, which relieves you of legal responsibility, relieve you of the moral responsibility to your family?

If you run away from your wife and children and left them unprotected for the neighbors would call you a rascal.

They would not call you a rascal if you should die without providing for your family, but your memory would suffer. The neighbors would say you had been negligent, to say the least.

And your wife and children—how will they think of you?

When you die, my friend, there will be weeping in your house and sadness. Whether you be rich or poor, wise or negligent, there will be a great sense of bereavement.

But—

You have the chance while living to provide for that day of mourning, to take away the anxiety about money for expenses and the worry because of the future years.

And the memory of you shall be blessed.

Life insurance is not charity. It is more than charity, better than charity, because it saves to its beneficiaries their self respect and independence.

The money it brings to the family belongs to the family. It is theirs. It was intended for them.

You have reached out a helping hand from your very grave—a hand to bless and sustain your own whom you have loved and lost awhile.

And the money you have provided is ready money.

"He gives twice who gives quickly."

"When you are dead, my friend, your wife no longer be able to shield you from the rough corners of the world or to help your boy to an education or to save your daughter from hardships and temptations."

SPOIL PLAN OF SENATOR ALDRICH

SENATORS BY DEBATES ON TARIFF BILL DELAY EARLY ACTION.

NO WAY TO STOP THE TALK

Prospects Good for Fight Extending into the Dog Days—Bailey, Scott and Gore Discuss Bill—Beveridge to Speak To-Day.

Washington, Apr. 28.—The senate provides no way to close the floodgates of oratory which have been opened, letting out a flow of speech which threatens to spoil the plans of Senator Aldrich and his followers to bring about an early settlement of the tariff question.

Technically the bill is now on second reading, and presumably it is to be discussed section by section, instead of as a whole. But all of the speeches delivered and to be delivered cover the whole gamut of the bill.

Aldrich Leaders Losing Faith.
As a result, the Aldrich leaders are beginning to lose faith in their ability to hurry the bill through, and the prospects of the fight dragging into the dog days are becoming greater. Senator Scott of West Virginia made a pathetic plea for the infant industries of West Virginia yesterday. Then he clashed with Senator Gore—the blind member from Oklahoma—on the need of his coal mines and the oil wells and glass factories for heavy protection.

Senator Bailey took two hours of the afternoon session to complete his income tax oration. It was far more technical than Monday, dealing almost entirely with the details of the supreme court, but he held the attention of a big audience. He had a number of clashes with Republican senators in which Senator Nelson (Rep.) of Minnesota constantly supported Bailey against his foe.

Beveridge Speaks To-Day.
Among the speeches scheduled for to-day is one by Senator Beveridge, who has announced that he will oppose the income tax plan. This has come as a surprise to the more radical Republicans who had confidently counted the senior Indiana senator among the advocates of the income tax. The latter seems suddenly to have become converted to the Aldrich ideas, particularly since the finance committee is said to have looked with favor on his tariff commission project. Senators Blumens of North Carolina, Brown of Nebraska and Borah of Idaho also are scheduled for speeches.

Aldrich Devises Clever Scheme.
The "prudent" method by which the imposition of an income tax can be best accomplished may prevent the adoption of either the Bailey or Cummins amendments to the pending tariff bill. Senator Aldrich has devised a cunning scheme to draw away strength from the income tax forces. It is as to whether an income tax can be made imperative by legislation, especially in view of the supreme court decision, or by amending the constitution to permit the levying of such a tax. His clever plan has taken root and already some of those who strongly favor this means of raising revenue believe the constitution must be first changed.

ACCUSED BY HIS WIFE.

Tom Thorne Held by Kansas Justice on Charge of Conspiracy.

Kansas, Wis., Apr. 28.—In the court of Justice McCarron here yesterday afternoon Tom Thorne, said to be widely known in Y. M. C. A. athletic circles, of Hyde Park and a mechanical draughtsman by occupation, was held to the circuit court in bonds of $350 to answer to charges of conspiracy brought against him by his wife, Mrs. Mary Thorne of Kansas, who insisted that he had attempted to ruin her reputation by introducing a half-dressed man into her apartments and then confronting her with him and charging her with infidelity.

F. L. Preston, a young medical student and a physical director at the Northwestern Medical college in Chicago, who was arrested with Thorne, was released from custody, but only after he had been given a scathing lecture by the court in which he was scored for the part he played in the plot. Harry Barnard, a Chicago musician, who is alleged to have been the third party in the conspiracy, is still at large.

Saved by Bed Clothing.
Madison, Wis., Apr. 28.—Heavy bed clothing, diminishing the force of blows dealt with an ax upon the body of Mrs. Mary Townley by Albert Engel, is probably all that saved the aged woman from death at the hands of Engel yesterday. When arrested Engel had a bottle of carbolic acid in his pocket. He was sent to jail for 60 days. The Engles have had frequent quarrels.

Buys Illinois Coal Land.
Vernon, Ill., Apr. 28.—Loren O. Wood of New York has closed a deal for the purchase of 2,000 acres of coal land for $100,000. Mr. Wood's holdings now total 13,000 acres for which he paid $800,000.

HOLD FIRST CONVENTION.

Religious Liberals Meet in Philadelphia—Prominent Men Speak.

Philadelphia, Apr. 28.—The National Federation of Religious Liberals, which was organized in this city last December, opened its first congress last evening in the great Meeting-house of the Society of Friends on Race street. Henry W. Wilbur of Philadelphia, the president, was in the chair and welcomed the members of the federation. The topic for discussion was "Religious Toleration and Good Citizenship," and the speakers were Oscar S. Straus of New York, Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore, President Fawcett of Brown university and Dr. Hooker T. Washington of Tuskegee institute. A letter from President Taft was read by Secretary Wendell of Boston.

At this morning's session President Wilbur delivered his annual address, and there were talks by Rev. W. C. Gannett of Rochester, N. Y.; President Hamilton of Tufts college, and Edwin D. Mead of Boston. An address by ex-Gov. Guild of Massachusetts was the feature of the afternoon. The congress will continue until Friday evening, and many distinguished men are on the program.

FIGHTS FOR HUSBAND'S BODY.

Corpses Held by Court on Injunction Granted Widow.

Crafts of Grass Lake, Mich., the brother and guardian of the dead man are contesting for possession of the body. Dr. Crafts died in the state insane asylum here. His widow alleges that he was not insane and was put in the asylum last fall when he made a business trip to Grass Lake, Mich., just as he and his wife were preparing to go to Charleston, S. C. A hearing to-morrow on the injunction which the widow obtained was held to-day.

Suspected of Big Gem Theft.

GUST OF EX-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

New York City, April 26.—The long promised bust of ex-President Roosevelt for the senate chamber has at last been executed in marble and will be placed among the other ex-presidents in the upper house of congress.

About a year ago Mr. Fraser executed a bust of Mr. Roosevelt for the senate chamber, which was greatly admired by Mr. Roosevelt, but Mr. Fraser was not satisfied with it. He accordingly chucked the piece. The original piece was more realistic, but that of the new bust Mr. Fraser considers more characteristic.

Mr. Fraser is one of the youngest sculptors of New York, was a student at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, in Paris, and was a favorite assistant of Augustus Saint-Gaudens at his studio in Cornish, N. H. He executed an equestrian statue and a statue of President Jefferson for the World's fair at St. Louis, and, among other noteworthy commissions, a marble bust of the son of Harry Payne Whitney; also the special medal of honor created for the Exposition of the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo. Replicas of this were made for the Metropolitan Museum of Art and other similar institutions.

OFFERED BRIDE TO PROTECT SMUGGLERS.

William J. Loeb, Jr., collector of the port of New York, and the customs house in New York City.

New York.—A far reaching plot to detain the government by persons that are well up in the social world has been unearthed by William J. Loeb, Jr., President Roosevelt's appointee as collector of the port of New York. Already $250,000 has been offered to clear up the smuggling case and if prosecution will be dropped, and this has been refused by Mr. Loeb, although the maximum fine which could possibly be imposed would not exceed $100,000. The offering of this bonus of $100,000 indicates that the parties involved have plenty of money and would rather spend this than have their names connected with the scandal. Mr. Loeb insists that he will ferret the case to the limit and do cover and expose the guilty parties and that no amount of money could induce him to stop the prosecution.

MAKES FIVE MILLION DOLLARS

SHREWDEST PROPHET IN THE WORLD AND THE WIFE WHO WILL ENJOY THE BENEFITS OF HIS WISE FORESIGHT.

By NORMAN.

Chicago, Ill.—No more dramatic scene has been witnessed on the Chicago exchange than when the government report on wheat was chucked up. It sent May wheat to $1.30 within a few hours. It occurred at precisely 7 o'clock in the morning. A bit of yellow paper was hurriedly handed up to the man on the ladder. The strain was now intense. Millions were at stake. The man at the board traced a figure eight in the black space, then a figure nine; they had hoped, then a figure ten; they had hoped, then a figure eleven; they had hoped, then a figure twelve. The traders waited for no more. One concentrated yell arose from the floor with the sharpness and suddenness of a thunder clap. They had read 82 per cent. What it meant was that the world was short of wheat.

Meanwhile James A. Patten, the wheat king of the world, sat smiling across the street in his office. It was some six months ago that this wise prophet, who for years has been studying the wheat situation, walked into the board of trade when May wheat was selling at $1.06 and told them that wheat would go to $1.25. Some of them laughed at him; others followed his advice and bought. Those who were wise enough to buy are today wealthier by many millions of dollars.

This prophecy is no guess work with James A. Patten. He merely anticipated the government report and the reports from foreign countries. The world is short of wheat this year and Patten knew it. Now that it is verified those who followed his advice are wondering how they could have been so much fools.

When your representative called upon Mr. Patten to see what kind of a man this wheat king really was, he found a very ordinary looking man smoking a long cigar. He is quiet of nature and spends his evenings at home with his family, reading and smoking. Mr. Patten is a model husband and business man. His working day is devoted to his business absolutely to his family circle and to rest. He does not drink, does not gamble or dissipate in any form. He retires to bed early in the evening, usually about 9 o'clock, and is up early the following morning, wide awake and ready for his work. He never carries his business troubles or tears home with him, leaving it all at the office to be attacked with renewed vigor the next morning. This is why he is able to grasp situations better than most of the others who have been "out with the boys" the night before.

Mrs. Patten possesses a very charming personality and is a great admirer of her husband. Mr. Patten seldom talks over business affairs with her because he leaves them all at the office.

With all his work and business Mr.

Patton is intensely human. He takes a great interest in the affairs of the people around him. He gives much to charity in a quiet way and has added education by his handsome donations to the Northwestern university. Mr. Patton has been identified with the Chicago board of trade for many years. He very seldom appears on the floor, but he is in close touch with it through his representatives. It was only a few years ago that he was able to make a like fortune out of corn, when he became known as the "corn king."

The price of $1.30 on May wheat is the highest attained by that product since Joe Lottor sent wheat skyward by the corner which broke him in 1908, when it reached $1.85. Only once before that since the civil war has wheat been up to $1.30 and that was in 1868, when the so-called Hitt-chinson corner sent September wheat to $2.

It is estimated that Mr. Patten has made between five and six million dollars out of his holdings of wheat and if it goes up higher, as many think it will, his profits will be still further increased.

Students Not Allowed To Drink Coffee---

"A few cents will buy a very fair lunch at the 'New Teah, High,' Cleveland."

"But Students are not allowed to drink coffee without a doctor's prescription."

Good evidence that thinking people—educators and others—know coffee is a thing to be used with some risk.

Well posted people now understand why coffee-drinking should be regulated by the doctor. It contains a drug—caffeine—which is the cause of numerous ails, little and big, some becoming serious.

Postum is right for "School Lunch-Rooms," as it contains no coffee or other harmful substance.

Postum is made of clean, hard wheat, skillfully roasted—including the bran-coat wherein Nature has grown the valuable phosphate of potash. This organic, "vital" salt is necessary to rebuild wasted brain and nerve cells.

School children use up an enormous amount of brain and nerve cells—they're growing fast.

Let School children have Postum with good cream or milk. They like it when properly brewed and a week's time will tell a tale of good nourishment.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

FOR RIPPING SEAMS

TAKES TOPS OFF CANS

Cloth Is Pulled Over Knife, That Is Held in the Lap.

Device Cuts Through Tin as Though It Was Paper.

If a stitch in time save nine, how much time can be saved by the ripping of a whole series of stitches at once? The answer may not be perfect, but it is suggested by the invention of a man in Maine, which is designed to rip up a seam in a piece of cloth at one pull, to open. This invention consists of a supporting body with curved ends which fit across the lap of the operator, and curved ends holding it in position by outward pressure of the legs. In the center of this support is fastened a cutter in the shape of a curved knife, the edge pointing outward. To rip a seam

Another invention for use in the kitchen is the can opener designed by a Washington man. This apparatus is of especial value in hotels and restaurants, as it does the work much quicker than the old style opener, but because of its efficiency it will also be a welcome addition to home kitchen utensils. It consists of an upright, to which a handle is fastened as a lever. Underneath this handle is a knife of open circular form, with a recess which drives it into two substantially semicircular sections, with the cutting edge inclining upward from the front end, which has two depending spurs. At the open rear end is a screw, by which the ends may be opened or closed. The can is placed directly under the knife, and by means of the handle the knife is pressed down upon the top. The spurs penetrate the tin, and the knife blade follows, cutting a circular piece from the top of the can.

SAYES A GREAT DEAL OF TIME.

The cloth is drawn over the knife, which passes through the stitches in the seam, severing each as it is reached and opening the seam in a fraction of the time consumed if the work is done by hand. This device is especially convenient in coloring establishments or for dress-makers, as often the ripping of a seam is a long and tiresome operation.

NEW KIND OF AWNING

Novelty Consists in Fact That Any-one Can Hang It.

Where it was once necessary to await the pleasure of the upholsterer or some man of kindred trade before awnings could be hung in the spring, the genius of Philadelphia has made it possible for a householder to hang his own awning. This man has designed a plan whereby an awning can be put up or taken down in a few minutes. At the top of the window, at either side, are hooks, on which a bar of wood is hung. This bar has a row of other hooks along its length, adapted to receive the top beam of the awning, which is equipped with rimmed wheels. It can be readily seen that with such an arrangement the putting up or taking down of an awning is as simple a matter as it will could be—so simple, indeed, that the canvas can be taken down on the approach of a storm or on any occasion when they are not needed, thereby adding much to the life of these articles, which suffer most during heavy winds and rains.

California and Colorado show large estimated increases, ranging from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000. The estimates for Utah indicate a decrease of about $1,200,000. Nevada a decrease of $3,500,000. The production of Montana, Arizona, Idaho, Oregon and other silver-producing states has remained approximately stationary. The production from the Philippine Islands shows an increase of the estimate of the mine being $200,708 against $174,700 in 1907. As part of the Philippine gold does not reach the United States mine the showing is probably even better than these figures would indicate. The showing of the silver industry was not so good.

One Million Dollars at the Command of Chester Jordan in His Trail on the Charge of Murdering His Wife.

Charge of Murdering His Wife.
Chester A. Jordan and His Wife.
Cambridge, Mass.—A million dollars defense fund is at the command of Chester S. Jordan, the former actor, who is on trial for his life charged with the revolting murder of his beautiful wife, Honora Jordan.

The tragedy occurred at Somerville, an aristocratic suburb of Boston, September 1, 1908. Jealousy of other men, according to the prosecution, was the motive for the crime.
Jordan after his arrest is alleged by the police, made a confession in which he gave the details of how he had killed his wife and then backed her body to pieces and tried to destroy it in their home. Failing in this attempt, he put the headless torso in a trunk and took it to Boston with the intention of throwing it into the ocean from the steamer on which he had chartered passage to New York.
Jordan is a brother-in-law of James R. Livermore, the millionaire cotton speculator of New York. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phineas Jordan, and his sister, Mrs. Kendall, are well known members of Boston and Somerville society.

At one time the defendant was ambitious to become a stage star. He appeared in several productions and at that time met his wife, who was an actress. After their marriage the Jordan went back to Boston to live. His wealthy relatives kept the couple supplied with money. Jordan became jealous of men whom he accused his wife of associating with. He admitted his infidelity with the wife and his wife had quarreled, but declared that the woman had struck him first.

Temporary insanity is the defense. The state will demand the extreme penalty of the law. The young man has exhibited remarkable nerve and his indifference, it is feared by his friends, may prejudice him with the jury.
"I knoeked her down and was terrified when I found that I had killed her," declared Jordan, according to the police. "I put the body in the kitchen and went to bed, where I soon was asleep. The next day I went out and got a butcher's knife and hucklew and dismembered the body. I intended to burn it but wasn't equal to the job. Then I thought of putting the body in a trunk and throwing it into the ocean. But the hucklew got suspicious and gave me away."

SCIENCE NOTES

Although its first cost is considerable, it is not that alone which operates against the more generous use of brass work for the interior finishing of large office buildings and similar structures, but rather the cost of maintenance. For large buildings the use of metal work for this purpose is very expensive, but it requires constant attention that it may be always bright and clean, and the expense is considerable in the aggregate and really costs more of a figure than the initial expense.

The work of polishing the metal work has heretofore been done by men armed with chemical skins or a substrate and a very nature of the work the progress made by the men could be nothing else but slow. This work has been greatly facilitated recently by the adoption of the electric current for the purpose. The modern polisher's outfit consists of a motor, a flexible cable, with strips in order that it may be swung from the shoulder of the operator. A flexible cable maintains a connection with some convenient lamp socket and the motor is made to operate a revolving brush by means of a flexible shaft. The brush may be disposed for a polishing disc where the latter may be used with more convenience. With this equipment, a man can cover a great deal of metal surface in a short time with the expenditure of very little physical energy. This piece of apparatus is capable of quite a wide range of work of this general nature.

The Great Lakes survey, begun in 1847, has cost about $1,200,000, according to Gen. W. L. Marshall, chief of engineers. The triangulation was 71 per cent. completed on June 30, 1909; the precise leveling, 63 per cent.; the ordinary leveling, 48 per cent.; the deep sea sounding, 15 per cent.; the hydrographic surveying, 4 per cent.; and magnetic observations, 75 per cent. on land and two on water.
The advantages of ball-bearings for two over plain lubbered bearings was recently determined in a series of tests of a 25-horsepower fan so designed that it could be operated either with the plain or ball-bearings. When adjusted for the same load and conditions of delivery, it was found that slightly over 7 per cent. more power was required to operate it with lubbered bearings than with the ball-bearings, while when adjusted for the same power inputs in other cases, an increase of delivery capacity of over 7 1/2 per cent. was secured with the ball-bearings in use.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

Certain Ingredients That Really Grow Hair When Properly Combined.

Research is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its natural nourishment, and also creates a clean, healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Phosphoric acid, although not a coloring matter of dye, is a well-known ingredient for restoring the hair to its natural color, when the loss of hair has been caused by a disease of the scalp. These ingredients in proper combination, with alcohol added as a stimulant and for its well defined nourishing properties, perfect the most effective remedy that is known for scalp and hair troubles.

We have a remedy which is chiefly composed of these ingredients, in combination with other extremely valuable medicinal agents. We guarantee it to positively cure dandruff and to grow hair; even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair. If there is any vitality left in the roots, it will positively cure baldness. If the scalp has a tendency to become itchy, it is permanent, but in every other instance, baldness is curable.

We want everyone troubled with scalp disease or loss of hair to try Rexal "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not cure dandruff and grow hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. We print this guarantee on every bottle. It has effected a positive cure in 93% of cases where put to a practical test.

Rexal "93" Hair Tonic is entirely unlike, and in every particular better, than anything else we know of for the purpose for which it is prescribed. We urge you to try this preparation at our entire risk. Certainly we know of no better guarantee to give you. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. The Smith Drug Co.

Insect Enemies and How to Destroy Them

We embody in the following brief but plain descriptions of the various insects which attack different classes of trees and plants, and in each case the best known remedy. Our directions can be relied upon implicitly, and we need only ask our friends and customers to follow the directions in each case to the letter.

Directions for Preparing the Remedies.

PARIS GREEN OR LONDON PURPLE.—These poisons are used either in solution or dry form. In solution one pound is mixed with from 100 to 300 gallons of water, the strength depending on the kind of insects to be destroyed. The poison should first be mixed with enough water to form a paste, after which the full quantity may be added. It is always best to add one or two pounds of lime for each pound of the green, as the danger to foliage will be much lessened thereby. Paris Green alone is sometimes applied in dry form. It is best, however, to mix each pound with ten pounds of flower or plaster. The liquid is much less objectionable, and it would, in all cases, recommend it.

KEROSENE EMULSION.—Take common bar soap, one-half a pound, water one gallon, and kerosene two gallons. Shave the soap into the water, then heat the whole until all the soap is dissolved; add the kerosene, and churn for ten minutes by pumping it back into itself; when cool, the emulsion should have the consistency of thick cream or soft butter, this depending somewhat upon the kind of soap used.

Insects Affecting the Grape—The Flea Beetle.

This small, steel blue insect, appears in early spring, and at once begins eating the tender foliage. After eating about a moment the beetle deposits small, yellow eggs on the foliage. These soon hatch into small larvae, which continue the work of destruction.

REMEDIES.—Spray with Paris Green, one pound, and one and one-half pounds lime to 200 gallons of water, as soon as the beetles are noticed. Two applications of this solution at intervals of a week or ten days, will usually destroy all the insects.

The Rose Bug.

It makes its appearance early in the summer, devouring flowers, young fruit and leaves. The beetle is about half an inch long and of a brown color.

REMEDIES.—The best results have followed the use of Pyrethrum, which should be applied in solution at the rate of one ounce to two gallons of water.

Insects Affecting the Apple—The Codling Moth.

The little white caterpillar, whose effects are so familiar to every one, is the larvae of a small, nocturnal, gray moth. The moth deposits her egg on the blossom end of the fruit. As soon as the eggs hatch the larvae eats its way into the young fruit; the rest of the story is well known to every one.

REMEDIES.—Spray the trees with Paris Green or London Purple at the rate of one pound to 250 gallons of water, add one and a half pounds of lime, first when the flowers are falling and again when the fruit is the size of peas.

The Canker Worm.

This measuring worm eats the green portion of the leaf, giving the tree a brownish color, as though scorched by fire. The worms appear in early spring, and when full grown, are an inch long.

REMEDIES.—Spray the trees when the leaves are one-third grown, with Paris Green solution, one pound to 200 gallons of water, and add one and a half pounds of lime. Usually one spraying will be sufficient, but if the worms appear to be on the increase a second application will be advisable.

Apple Tree Tent-Caterpillar.

The large silken nests made by this insect are familiar to every one. The caterpillars appear in May or June, and in five or six weeks have attained their full size.

REMEDIES.—Cut out and burn the nests as soon as they are seen, taking the precaution to do this in the morning when the caterpillars are all in. This, together with one or two sprayings of Paris Green solution, having a strength of one pound to 200 gallons of water, and one and a half pounds of lime, will effectually rid the trees of the pest.

The Apple Aphid.

Apple trees are often attacked early in the season by this insect. The lice are quite small and green in color. By sucking the juices from the young growth they greatly interfere with the functions of the latter, and as a result the tree has a sickly, yellow appearance.

REMEDIES.—Spray with kerosene emulsion at the rate of one gallon to twenty of water, as soon as the lice appear. Repeat the treatment eight or ten days if necessary. A decoction made by soaking over night four or five pounds of tobacco stems, or refuse tobacco of any kind, in five gallons of water, will also be found an excellent remedy against the lice.

The Oyster Shell Bark Louse.

There are frequently seen on the trunks, branches and twigs of the apple tree small, whitish shells, resembling in shape those of an oyster. Under these shells are numerous small lice busily engaged in sucking the sap from the tree.

REMEDIES.—Scrape the trees thoroughly in spring before the leaves appear and then paint the trunk and large limbs with a thick solution made by dissolving one quart of soft soap in half a gallon of hot water. Two ounces of crude carbolic acid added to this will also increase its efficacy. Make no further treatment until the middle of May. When kerosene emulsion 1 gallon to 25 gallons of water should be applied. It is always best to apply the emulsion soon after the lice hatch.

Insects Affecting the Peach—The Black Aphid.

Numbers of this small, shiny black insect may be seen in the spring on the leaves and twigs of the peach. The lice often do a great deal of damage above ground as well as below the roots.

REMEDIES.—For the form above ground, spraying with kerosene emulsion, one gallon to thirty-five gallons of water, is the most effective remedy. The first spraying should be made as soon as the lice appear; if necessary, this should be followed by others at intervals of a few days until the trees are rid of the pest. Under the ground the lice are best destroyed by digging in tobacco stems or are rid of the pest. The tobacco is scattered on the ground to the depth of half an inch or more, then dug in with a spade or fork.

Peach Yellow.

This is one of the few diseases as to which very little is positively known, except its effects. It usually makes its appearance about mid-summer, causing the foliage of the tree to turn yellow, and soon thereafter the body and large limbs will throw out a considerable number of weak, yellow leaved suckers. If the tree is loaded with fruit it will be under size, little or no flavor, and ripen prematurely.

REMEDIES.—The moment that you feel sure that a tree is affected with yellows, dig it up root and branch and burn it, and plant any tree that you like, other than a peach, in its place.

Insects Affecting the Pear—The Pear Tree Slug.

This insect attacks the leaves, eating away the green portion so that nothing remains but the parchment-like tissue and veins. It appears usually the latter part of June and again in August.

REMEDIES.—Spraying with a simple solution of milk of lime, made by mixing two pounds of lime in twenty gallons of water, will often rid the trees of this pest. The first application should be made as soon as the slugs are noticed; if necessary, others should follow in a week or ten days. By adding a little Paris Green, say one ounce, to the lime milk, the latter will be more effectual.

The Scurfy Bark Louse.

This insect resembles the Oyster Shell Bark Louse already described as attacking the apple. REMEDIES.—The same as for Oyster Shell Bark Louse.

Pear Blight.

It is understood by the best authorities, both practical and scientific, that the cause of this disease is absolutely unknown, and there is but one certain remedy, namely—to cut out the blighted parts promptly on appearance of the disease and burn them.

Insects Affecting the Plum—The Curculio.

This little grub originates from eggs deposited by a small, dirty, gray beetle, when the flowers are still small.

REMEDIES.—The most reliable way now known of dealing with Curculio is to spray it with Paris Green. The first application should be made when the flowers are falling, using a solution made by mixing one pound of Paris Green in 200 gallons of water, and adding one and a half pounds of lime. In a week or ten days make a second application, and follow this by another after the lapse of some length of time.

The Plum Tree Aphid.

This insect resembles the one occurring on the peach and, like it, may be destroyed by spraying with kerosene emulsion, made by mixing one gallon of the concentrated emulsion in twenty gallons of water.

Black Knot.

The most scientific as well as practical fruit growers in the country are by no means agreed as to the cause of Black Knot on plum and cherry trees, but they are entirely agreed as to the only known remedy, namely: Just as soon as the Black Knot appears cut it out, removing the branch at least two inches below where the knot appears. Burn the affected parts and follow this method promptly, thoroughly and in most cases, you will have exterminated the disease before it has done serious damage.

Insects Affecting the Cherry.

The Cherry is injured by plant lice, resembling those occurring on the peach or plum. The Pear Tree Slug also attacks the leaves, while the fruit is infested by the Plum Curculio.

REMEDIES.—The remedies given under peach and pear insects should be adopted in this case.

Black Knot.

Cherry trees are affected with Black Knot the same as the plum trees, and the same remedies should be used.

Insects Affecting the Currant and Gooseberry—The Currant Worm.

The perfect form of the worm is a small fly, which lays its eggs on the leaves in early spring. As soon as the eggs hatch, the worms eat circular holes in the foliage. As the worms increase in size, they become more voracious, often riddling the leaves.

REMEDIES.—As soon as the worms are seen, spray the plants with a solution made by mixing one ounce of hellebore in two gallons of water.

The Currant Aphid.

The insect attacks the leaves, causing them to curl and turn brown. The lice are usually abundant in early summer, but as hot weather advances they disappear.

REMEDIES.—Spray with kerosene emulsion, one gallon to twenty gallons of water, as soon as the lice are noticed.

Insects Affecting the Rose.

THE ROSE BUG.—The same as sometimes attacks the grape. REMEDIES.—the same.
THE GREEN APHID.—The same that attacks the apple. REMEDIES.—the same.
THE BLACK APHID.—The same that attacks the peach and other trees. REMEDIES.—the same.

TWILIGHT CLUB'S

CLOSING BANQUET

THIRTEENTH YEAR OF THE OR-GANIZATION A MOST suc-CESSFUL ONE.

LADIES' NIGHT WAS ENJOYED

Delicious Repast—Clever Talks—Good Music—The Topic of the Evening: "Janesville."With its banquet at the Myers Hotel last evening the Twilight Club closed the thirteenth year of its existence in a most successful manner. It was a most successful year, and the club was a credit to the city. The banquet was a success in every way. The club was a credit to the city. The banquet was a success in every way.Tables had been laid in the dining room of the hotel and overflow meetings were held in the hall adjacent,
the ordinary and even in the parlor.
A delicious repast was served and this was followed by the program of the evening. Mr. Jeffris made a most admirable toast master and his introduction of the speakers was both witty and brilliant, evoking the approval of the audience each time he had the floor.Before the regular program began, however, the arrangements for the work of the club for the coming year were discussed and decided upon.
Judge Fildes made a motion which was seconded and carried without a dissenting vote, that two committees be appointed—one, a committee of arrangements for the club's work during the next year, and the other a committee of three to adjudge school prizes. After the above matter had been settled, Dr. F. C. Sutherland made a motion that the club appoint a committee to give prizes, amounting to $50, to the owner of the greatest improvement in the city.Mr. F. C. Grant also approved of the project and made some valuable suggestions, offering to see that the required sum would be secured. The motion was carried unanimously and the leader authorized to name the three committees.The Janesville Symphony Orchestra gave the first number on the program, a delightful rendition of the Last Opus. It was a most finished production and pleased all.
Mr. Jeffris then introduced the first speaker who was to take up the question "Some Reasons Why Janesville Does Not Grow." Mr. Charles Hemmingway, in part Mr. Hemmings said:"The question assumes that Janesville has not grown at all, but it has.
True, its growth has been conservative, but it has been steady and enduring. If it has had no boom, it had no collapse; if it has had no real large factories with their exhilarating influence upon the retail market;
neither has an amateur paucity closed its factories, turned its employees into the streets and demoralized trade generally."But how Janesville had a normal growth? Unable to answer the question myself, I have put it to laborers, doctors, butchers, bakers and candlstick makers. The reasons I give are their answers. Janesville's lack of growth in population cannot be explained on the theory of race suicide.
Outsiders are inclined to think that we have determined upon a certain population and that all in excess of that number we throw into the river.
The consensus of opinion is: that the city is suffering from an acute attack of retired farmer it is, and that retired farmers do not make for a progressive city."Janesville is suffering from a dearth of public spirited men of wealth with an inclination to boost the city. I am informed that many of our wealthiest families do practically nothing for the city as compared with what others are doing, when their relative wealth is considered.
"The foreign investments of our wealthiest citizens have been, indeed, profitable to them, but how about the city? Factories of small capacity have been denied the money to expand; other less shrewd investors have followed the example of their richer neighbors and invested in foreign concerns, which, in many instances, have resulted in ruin. It is nothing but without agencies at the best. Because of this tendency to foreign investment and because to some short-lived concerns which Janesville has promoted to her sorrow, she is considered a Mecca for the promoter of every pay-as-you-enter and lose-as-you-go concern. It is estimated that a million dollars has gone out of Janesville during the last ten years, half of which will never return."Then, again, there is the rivalry between the east and west sides. A travelling man scarcely known here has a river until some one else merchandise refuses to patronize him. If he has stopped at a west side hotel,
"One was almost unanimously assigned for our lack of growth was the short-sighted rivalry between our banking institutions. No enterprise, no matter how worthy, can secure their united support."Excessive freight rates have been given Janesville a black eye. We have been charged all the traffic will bear in every instance. In contrasting Rockford and Janesville the glaring inequalities appear. In view of the facts, either the railroads are carrying Rockford's freight at a loss, or they are robbing Janesville. The reason for this is simple—Rockford shippers have organized; Janesville's can't get together."Janesville has not grown, it is said, because we have raised in most factories half way that we look upon them with deep suspicion; that we do not give them fair investigation; that we send the wrong men to investigate and report on them; that our men of means refuse to have anything to do with an enterprise which they cannot control. Another thing that has kept new concerns from locating here is the attitude of some of our largest factories. They want no other factories, not because they fear competition, but that it will increase the demand for and price of labor and possibly unemploy it."Janesville has suffered because its citizens are jealous of one another;
they often prefer to see a plan fail rather than have some one besides themselves profit by it. They cannot get together on anything; or the freight rate discrimination would be athing of the past. A home credit protective association is needed, but merchants can't get together on it; hence they continue to lose through bad debts many times what it would cost them to maintain the association, if it has no commercial organization to boon and boost the city, to make known its resources, to look up home factories and to see where added capital would mean dividends, to look out for new factories, to interest home capital in industries needed here; mill condenseries, packing plants and grain buyers. We need more small factories financed by home capital, more co-operation, and a live commercial club including a good secretary. Such secretaries—Wausau has a ten-thousand-dollar one—can be eased, but not like Salvation, need a money and without price, to save in part the $125,000 which goes out every year to outside insurance companies;
we need more interurbans and more
"boosters.""Why has Janesville not grown morally? Surely, it should have been so. Her citizens have erected a saloon on every corner, and have failed to provide playgrounds other than the streets. We have licensed three times as many saloons as there should be, and made it necessary for them to violate the law in order to make a living."I have given you what I have found to be the reasons why Janesville has not grown. We are all guilty."Then came the part of the program which even the club-members were not expecting. In a vein of sarcasm, bitting and cutting in the extreme, Marshall Richardson replied to Mr. Hem-mings' remarks. Refuting the claim that Janesville had not grown, he gave figures to show that in the past year Janesville had done more building than any other city of its size.
He branded the former speaker as a "knocker" and held up the bank reports to prove that instead of a million dollars being taken from the city a million dollars in business had been deposited was shown.Mr. Richardson and the club failed to discover that the speaker did not mean all the hard things he said until he was through.Upon the conclusion of Mr. Richardson's address, Mr. Jeffris introduced the next speaker, Frank A. Taylor, who at the beginning of his address was forced to deny the insinuation that he "ran the scales to suit himself." In developing his subject, "Why do we buy it in Janesville?" the speaker endeavored to simplify his task by modifying so that it ran, "Why do I buy it in Janesville?""I will tell the truth about the matter, I buy it in Janesville because I am allowed a reasonable credit here, and because of the fact that the liberal exemption laws of the state make it practicable for me to pay almost when I am ready."Among other reasons which he gave was the fact that he liked to buy goods at a store before which a beneficial city sent a street cleaner up and down every night in order to dust the front windows and make the whole ensemble as beautiful as possible.After thus giving a few original and humorous reasons, the speaker got down to a serious consideration of his subject. Everyone should make it his duty to buy all his needs in Janesville
if only for the reason that the loudest talkers, those who make the greatest outcry whenever a fellow citizen goes outside of Janesville to purchase anything, do not practice what the preach.
In this connection he paid a high tribute to the newspapers of the town whom he claimed were doing more than their share in keeping the trade at home and presenting the goods of local dealers before the citizens of Janesville in a manner that did a great deal to keep trade in the city.The fact that it has been born here and had never been accustomed to buying what he needed here, was also given as a very important reason. In addition to the causes already mentioned, the fact that Janesville has many good stores as any city of its size in the state also influenced many.But the best and most important reason for "buying it in Janesville" and one that should be thought of by everyone who is tempted to take advantage of some outside bargain, is a feeling of pride in the home town, together with the knowledge that nothing will more surely kill a town than to have its citizens give their trade to outsiders.There are several causes which lead purchasers to go outside of town, not least of which is the desire to have something different from all the rest.
This applies particularly to women.
Then again there is the possible saving of a dollar.If these people would but stop and think when they make these purchases, and try to realize what would happen to Janesville merchants did but all Janesville buyers do the same thing, perhaps they would make it a

FOOD FACTS

What an M. D. Learned.

A prominent Georgia physician went through a food experience which he makes public:"It was my own experience that I led me to advocate Grape-Nuts food and I also know, from having per-scribed it to convalescents and other weak patients, that the food is a wonderful restorative and restorer of nerve and brain tissue, as well as a tonic.
It improves the digestion and sick patients always gain just as I did. It strengthens and weight very rapidly."It was in such a low state that I had to give up my work entirely, and went to the mountains of this state, two months there did not improve me; in fact, I was not quite as well as when I left home."My food did not sustain me and I became plain that I must change.
Then I began to use Grape-Nuts food and in two weeks I could walk a mile without fatigue, and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, and did up hard work again. Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life."As a physician I consider it a duty to make these facts public."Trial 10 days on Grape-Nuts, when the regular food does not seem to sus-tain the body, will work miracles.

"There's a Reason."

Look in pkgs. for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.point always to give them at least a trial.At this point Mr. Taylor stated that as the spirit had moved him sometimes before the banquet, he had written a little poetry, which he thought might be enjoyed by the audience, and proceeded to read a bit of doggerel to the company which brought out some of the ideas which he had conceived of his speech, more clearly.If subjected to a precise and rigid criticism the lines of the poem might have been judged a little bit warped, and the final syllable of Janesville giving altogether too much prominence, but the audience was not in a critical mood and greeted Mr. Taylor's flight into the realm of humorous doggerel with much applause.Mindful of the fate which befell Mr. Richardson, no one rose to combat Mr. Taylor's assertions and the next number on the program was announced by Mr. Arthur School, "Good Night, Little Girl—Good Night."The song was sung and Mr. School was forced to respond with another song, equally pretty, "Long Ago."In default of anything good that Mr.
Jeffris could or would say of Mr.
Matheson as a man, the leader was forced to go back to the next speaker's remote past to find something complimentary. The results of his researches he embodied in the statement that Mr. Matheson had been an honest youth; and that he did not think that he would offer the speech which "the puppy had fallen into."Mr. Matheson, after replying to the compliments of the leader, then spoke on the subject, "Why Janesville should expect anything from the ladies, and what it does expect." From all accounts both as expressed by the speaker himself and by the leader, Mr.
Matheson was well qualified to speak with authority upon the subject, as he was regarded as the Laureate of the Janesville ladies. In fact, as the speaker very happily put it, his talk was "sugar and spice and everything that was nice.""I like all woman-kind," said Mr.
Matheson."Dear Heart" was the heartfelt comment from the vicinity of Mr. Taylor.In describing what the ladies of Janesville do for the city, he was good in many ways. He described their disapproval many harmful practices, that they patronized home stores, beautified the city with flowers and porch decorations, and encouraged the work of school teachers by their interest in the school work, was well brought out."Their chief contribution and the one that Janesville expects of them is the beneficent influence which they exert upon the habits, tastes and morals of the men of Janesville. It is to be hoped that they will continue to exert this beneficial influence on the lives of the men of Janesville even as the ladies in the time of chivalry inspired their knights in noble deeds."At the conclusion of Mr. Matheson's heartfelt tribute, Mr. Samuel M. Smith was called upon to read the report of the Janesville Park and Pleasure Drive Association. There was evidently not much to report and aside from some suggestions, with regard to the changing of the officers and name of the association, Mr. Smith confined himself to the question, "What will it do?" referring of course to the association.In developing this idea, it was evident that the speaker had either re-secured the services of a medium or else had dreamed himself. In any case he had his audience dreaming with him in the space of a few moments and the shifting mirage of a new and beautiful Janesville passing before their mind's eye. Janesville, after the association had worked its will upon her, was indeed a thing of beauty and a joy forever.Five new bridges spanned the Rockford river and modern street cars, and here the audience stirred restlessly as if a dream of such impossible features had nearly awakened them. But the dream had not yet reached its full proportions.Janesville, the dream city of course, had a population of 20,000 with only half as many saloons as there are now; there were new business blocks, new hotels, interurban stations, parks and pavements.The yards were all beautiful, the marsh in South Janesville had been drained, and there was a bathing pier near the water station. At length his dream fugue came to an end, but his audience hated to wake.

NEW AGENT FOR THE U. S. EXPRESS CO.

A. W. Bergh Takes Charge Of Office
In Place of Jas. E. Botsford, Newly Appointed To Wells-
Fargo.Monday Former Agent James E.
Botsford, of the United States Express company turned over to Agent A. W.
Bergh, charge of the local office of the express company. On May 1st, the Wells-Fargo Company, with Mr.
Botsford as agent, and with offices in the store on North Main street, occupied by John Shank, will begin business in this city over the C. & M.
& St. P. railroad, supplanting the United States company over that line.
The change is the outcome of a contract secured by the Wells-Fargo to handle all express on trains over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad for the next twenty-eight years.
By this new contract the Wells-Fargo acquire between seven and eight thousand miles of additional service.
The contract which the express company has made with the railroad is said to be the longest ever made for that purpose. It was the desire of the officials of the road to draw up a contract for fifty years but the express company did not wish it and the agreement was made for twenty-eight years.While the United States people will lose all of their business on the St.
Paul road, they will not discontinue to work here in the city. The interurban line will be the carrier for all the business which they will do, cars running through to Chicago, twice a day. By this they can secure into Chicago and from Chicago, to points over the country. The office will be maintained in the same place although the force which were with the company before the transfer of business have gone over to the Wells-Fargo.
James E. Botsford will remain with the United States in the office, but with this exception the rest of themen have been hired by the Wells-Fargo.A new system of handling the express will be instituted by the Wells-Fargo when they open for business.
Much of the work that under the United States company's regime was done at the office, will be accomplished at the depot.At the office will be their agent, Mr. Botsford, and Fred H. Peterson, of Beloit, who has been a clerk for the American company in the Line City. Mr. Botsford has been here in the United States Express company's service for the past fifteen years, acting as agent here for three years.Besides these two gentlemen, there will be A. J. Miller, formerly clerk, now depot agent, J. A. Boyd, transfer man at the depot, and E. J.
Bennett, Michael Kennedy, and Arthur King as drivers.Three new wagons of the Wells-Fargo company will be used for their service in this city. These will be part of a lot of six hundred which the company has in Chicago awaiting delivery.The store in which the new offices are to be located will be entirely remodeled and refitted.

"Eureka!" says Van. "We have found it! Sol, let's have lunch." I got 'em something to eat and then the three of us put in the afternoon chasing the wild animals. The children was fairly easy to get hold of; I laid a trail of corn up to the door of the henyard and trapped the most of 'em that way. But the pig was a holy terror. He'd had his experience with Ozona islanders that morning and he didn't want any more. Up and down that blessed sand bar we chased him, getting upset and tiring ourselves out. The pig race over to Eastwick wasn't in it. I did most of the chasing; the Heavenlies superintended, as usual, and gave orders and laughed. They pretty nigh laughed themselves sick. Finally the critter bolted into the woodshed and I locked the door on him. It was six o'clock when I dumped him into the sty. Of all the Natural Life days I'd had yet this one was the liveliest and most wearing. A week like it and my natural place would have been the burying ground. I called it I lost three pounds that afternoon. I was getting so thin that when I fell down my legs made grooves in the sand.

The next forenoon me and Hartley went over to close the cook trade. Van wouldn't go. He said the gardening and the shipwreck and the stoopchase—meaning the pig hunt—had given him sensations enough for a week or so; he had some of 'em with him yet. So Martin said he'd go for me. I borrowed a couple of spare oars from Scudder, when he arrived with the morning's dose of skimmilk and cream and butter, and as I took care to row the skiff this time, we made the passage all right. Then we walked up to the Sparrow's nest.

"Twas a pretty shabby-looking shack, now I tell you. Shingles dropping off, and fence falling down, and a general shortage of man's work everywhere. But there was a bed of bachelor buttons and old maid's pinks under the front window, and the windows themselves were clean and bright. Eureka had done her best to make the place homely; you could see that.

She let us in when we knocked at the kitchen door. Her sleeves were rolled up and there was a big basket of clothes by the steaming washub. Editha, the 12-year-old, was grinding at the wringer and Deway, the baby, was setting on the floor playing with a rag doll. The rest of the tribe—except Lycurgus, who had gone peddling clams—was off playing.

Eureka, who apologized for things being so upset, but there wasn't any need for apologies. The house was plain and poor—you could see that it took a mighty lot of stretching to make both ends come in sight of each other, but it was clean; but 'twas clean as a whistle. Even the baby was clean, all except his face and hands, and no healthy young one ought to have them clean.

"Good morning," says Hartley. "Have you decided to cook for us?" "She bobbed her head over the washub. "I've decided it, if it has," says she. "I ain't made up my mind yet. He wanted to sleep on it, he said. I guess he's done that. Anyhow he's just got up. Step right into the dining room and talk to him. You'll have to excuse me; I've got to get this washing done afore noon, somehow."

So she pitched into the scrubbing, bawling in the middle exactly like a jointed pocket rule, and the Twin and me went into the dining room. There wasn't but one comfortable rocking chair in sight and he was in it, with his stooping feet resting on the ruins of a halfrotten sofa. He was pretty husky looking, seemed to me, for a man complicated with consumption and nervous dyspepsia, but his face was as dutiful as a crane's beak, and 'twas plain that he could see no hope, and was satisfied with his eyesight. He had a clay pipe in his mouth and was smoking like a peat fire.

"How are you, Mr. Sparrow?" says Martin, bright and chipper. "How's the health this morning?"

The invalid rolled his eyes around, but he didn't get out of the rocker. Neither did he take them blue yarn paid too much as 'tis. But we won't let pa know."

Afore I could answer there was a yell from the dining room. I looked in and there was Wansy doubled up in that rocker with his knees under his chin. He'd forgot about the busted cane seat and had set down heavy and gone through. Editha was trying to haul him out, the baby was crying and the invalid himself was turning loose the healthiest collection of language I'd heard for a good while. Eureka dove to the rescue, and I came away. Hartley and I walked on a spool without saying much. Then he said: "Skipper, do you suppose that fellow really has consumption?"

"Humph!" says I, disgusted; "consumption of grub."

He thought a minute longer.

"Poor girl," says he, "she has a hard time of it. We must see if we can't help her in some way."

Relics of the Past Disappearing.
"There is one memorial of a few decades ago that has about disappeared," remarked an observer with white whiskers, "and that is the old time doctors' offices. Remember the little office the size of a playhouse that would stand in one corner of the doctor's yard, a short distance from his house? It used to be that nearly all the doctors had their offices entirely separate from their dwelling houses, in that way. Evidently their wives wouldn't put up with the smell of drugs in the house. But when have you seen one of those old time offices? They seem to have been entirely absorbed by the past. Even in small towns I haven't seen one for a long time."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, April 28, 1869. Attempted Suicide.—Yesterday a man by the name of John Dorte, living near Atton, proceeded to the river and waded out beyond his depth, evidently with the intention of ending his life. His wife saw and rescued him, but not long afterwards again missed him and as nothing has been seen or heard of him since it is supposed that he has accomplished his design to drown himself. His conduct would indicate that he was laboring under temporary insanity.

A Serious Accident.—A Centralia, Ill., paper gives an account of a singular and serious accident at that place, to D. W. Parker of this city formerly. Two large dogs were fighting in the street, as Mr. Parker was passing with his little boy in a baby wagon.

The boy became frightened and Mr. Parker attempted to drive the dogs away, when one of them seized him by the hand and inflicted a terrible and dangerous wound.

Famous Sign.—John W. Allen, over the race, has a sign that will attract the attention of all who are fond of vegetables. In front of his tree store is a large maple, set out, that had no fruit on it last evening. This morning there are the ripe potatoes, parsnips, and turnips on the top branches. Later.—The frequent showers and warm sunshine has added apples, onions and stray lemons to the production of this tree.

Personal.—Dr. Osh who was so seriously injured on Saturday is still living.

Progress in Argentina.

The main factor in Argentina's progress during recent years has been its constant railroad extension.

Would Have to Take Roots and All. She went into a Fifth Avenue hair-dresser's shop to have her head shampooed. She wore her hair in a Psyche knot. The shampooer seemed to be a trifle rough, and finally her tugs at the Psyche knot became so forceful that the woman in the chair cried out in pain. "What are you trying to do; pull my head off?" she exclaimed. "I am trying to get your Psyche knot off," replied the shampooer, "but it won't come. How did you ever get it plumed on so firmly?" The customer almost shrieked: "Come off! Why, it's my own hair!"—N. Y. Tribune.

A Glimmer of the Truth.

Asked to write a report of a lecture on "Phases of Human Life—Youth, Manhood and Old Age," a young English girl produced: "In youth we look forward to the wicked things we will do when we grow up—this is the state of innocence. In manhood we do the wicked things of which we thought in our youth—this is the prime of life. In old age we are sorry for the wicked things we did in manhood—this is the time of our deluge."

I HAVE A CURE FOR CANCER

This cure is not in an experimental stage. I have been curing cancer for nineteen years and in all that time I have not had a single case recur. I can furnish you with the very best of references as to my personal character and financial stability and will absolutely guarantee to refund every cent paid me in case of a recurrence. Before deciding upon treatment I should like to have you call at my office and talk it over. Consultation and examination are free. The following letter from a man whom I cured of cancer tells what he thinks of my services:

Dr. G. H. Webster, Janesville, Wis. Dear Doctor:—I take this way of thanking you for the wonderful cure of the cancers on my lip and face, without losing one drop of blood or much inconvenience of sleeping or eating. Will say that my lip and face are all filled in and the beard has grown out, and there is only a small scar. And would say to others who are suffering from cancer, that they can find a cure by going to you if such a thing can be had. I consider money is nothing compared to life. Also, if anyone suffering with cancer, will write or come and see me I will only be too glad to write or tell them how easy it is to be cured. I am sincerely your friend, T. D. BARRETT, R. F. D. No. 12, Milton, Wis.

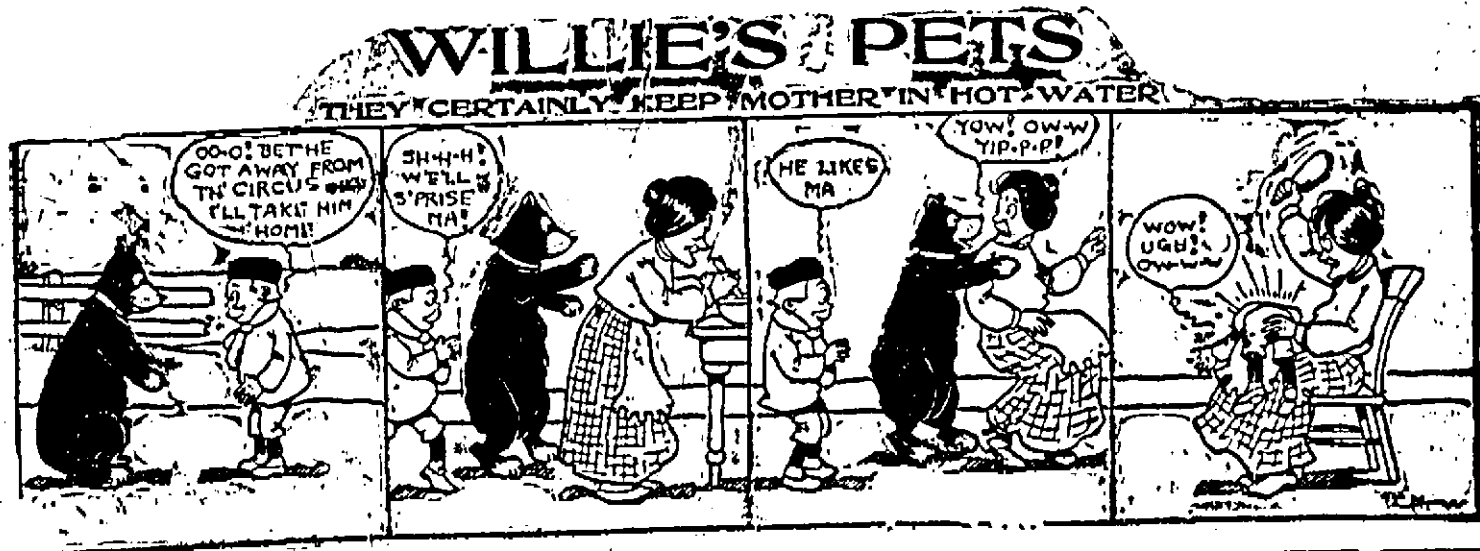

The above letter is one of many testimonials and endorsements, which I have on file and is proof positive that I do cure cancer.

PEDESTRIAN WESTON JUST AS HE WAS LEAVING NEW YORK ON HIS TRANSCONTINENTAL WALK TO SAN FRANCISCO, ON HIS SEVENTH BIRTHDAY.

Edward Payson Weston is the most phenomenal pedestrian in the world. He has accomplished many walking feats during his long career. As a young man he walked from his home to Washington, D. C., to see President Lincoln take the oath of office. Since that time he has engaged in many walks which have demonstrated his superiority over all pedestrians, both in endurance and speed. Mr. Weston has supreme faith in his physical ability in this direction and is a great believer in strenuous walking as an aid to good health. It was some 30 years ago that he predicted he would live to undertake the transcontinental walk which he has just started, on his seventh birthday. His route will take him up the Hudson to Albany, down through New York, touching Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and into Chicago. From that place he will journey westward in almost a direct line to Seattle and from Seattle down the coast to San Francisco. In all he will walk about 3,500 miles. He expects to deliver lectures along the route and many extensive programs have been arranged for his reception in the larger cities.

with hot milk or cream and a little fruit. If you eat more than the stomach needs you are wasting both money and strength. Overtaxing the stomach impairs digestion, weakens brain power and lays the foundation for disease. Cut out heavy meats and soggy white flour pastries for ten days, eat Shredded Wheat and see how much better you will feel—then tell your friends about it. Your grocer sells it.

Shredded Wheat is made of the choicest selected white wheat, cleaned, steam-cooked and baked. Try it for breakfast to-morrow with milk or cream. The Biscuit is also delicious for any meal in combination with fresh or preserved fruits.

W. J. LITTS.

Always Dressed the Fourteenth. Most dismal of men—off the stage—was Grimaldi, the clown, whose tomb in St. James', Pentonville, is to be restored; and his father fathered him. He had that curious dread of the date which assails so many. The elder Grimaldi hated the fourteenth of the month, and when it was past he regarded himself as safe until the next. He was born, christened and married on the fourteenth of the month, and being disconcerted with all three events we will hope his death on March 14, 1788, satisfied him.—London Chronicle.

Those Costly Extras.

"I wanted to send a silver spoon to my little nephew for his first birthday," said the fond aunt; "so the other day I went down town to get it. I found a pretty one for 85 cents and congratulated myself on getting off so cheap. Of course I wanted it engraved. That was three cents a letter. Eight letters in the child's name and 11 letters in the date made 67 cents. My carfare down and back to select the spoon was ten cents; then to get it after the engraving was done, ten cents more. Postage to register and send the package, 14 cents. So the spoon was 85 cents and the extras 61 cents. Next time I'll send him a dollar bill in a letter."
